Box No. III Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

1. The questions whether the claimed invention appears to be novel, to involve an inventive step (to be non-obvious), or to be industrially applicable have not been examined in respect of:

Re Item III.

The dependent claims 18-29 are unclear (they refer to claims 19 and 28), the reference is clearly in error, but it is not possible to know what the correct reference should be. Since the claims lack a counterpart in the description, i.e. are not supported by the description under Article 6 PCT, it has not been possible to carry out a meaningful search and there is thus no need to examine these claims.

Re Item V.

1. The following documents are referred to in this communication:

D1 : US 5 037 566
D2 : US 4 705 571
D3 : US 5 050 959
D4 : US-A-5 276 757
D5 : WO 01/85879
D6 : US-A-4 701 016
D7 : EP-A-0 889 343
D8 : DE-A-36 22 211

The passages cited in the International Search Report are referred to.

2. The present application does not meet the criteria of Article 33(1) PCT, because the subject-matter of claims 1, 2, 4-16, 30-32 is not new in the sense of Article 33(2) PCT.

Document D1 discloses a stable dispersion of synthetic lubricating fluid (PAO), PTFE, amine phosphate (antioxidant and wear inhibitor), polybutene, polypropylene glycol and hydrophobic fumed silica. The subject-matter of claims 1, 2, 4-14, 30 and 32 is not new over D1.

Document D2 discloses a filling composition for optical cable (light waveguide) comprising polyglycol or polyolefin, fumed silica, hydrogen containing silane compound and antioxidant. The subject-matter of claims 1, 2, 6-9, 11, 14-16, 30 and 31 is not novel over D2.

Document D3 discloses a fibre optic lubricant comprising polybutene, hydrophobic silica, PTFE, amine phosphate and PEG. Amine phosphate can be considered as an antioxidant (see D1). The subject-matter of claims 1, 2, 4-12, and 14 is not novel over D3.

3. The subject-matter of claims 3, 17 and 33 being novel over the said citations does not involve an inventive step therefore not meeting the requirements of Article 33(3) PCT.

Claim 3 concerns an embodiment comprising hydrophilic silica in addition to synthetic oil, coupling agent and antioxidant.

Claim 17 concerns an embodiment comprising as base oil polydecene and polybutene, hydrophilic silica and polyglycol along with antioxidant.

Claim 33 concerns an embodiment comprising a synthetic oil, fumed silica, antioxidant, coupling agent and a styrene butadiene polymer.

The following documents disclose some of these features in combination:

Document D4 discloses an optical fibre cable filling composition comprising base oil (polydecene and polybutene), fumed silica (hydrophobic) and antioxidant. No glycol or coupling agent is referred to.

Document D5 discloses synthetic lubricant for food processing comprising hydrogenated PAO, styrene-EP-copolymer, petroleum hydrocarbons, fumed silica, propylene glycol and PTFE. No antioxidant is used.

D6 discloses a grease as a cable filling material comprising a base oil, hydrophobic or hydrophilic silica, styrene rubber and antioxidant. No glycol or coupling agent is used (the document is cited in the application).

D7 discloses a filling for optical fibre cable comprising two hydrocarbons (e.g. PAOs), Kraton copolymer, silica (hydrophilic and/or hydrophobic) and antioxidant. No reference is made to polyglycol or coupling agent.

(SEPARATE SHEET)

International application No.

PCT/US2004/003572

D8 discloses a cable filling material comprising polyglycol as base oil, hydrophilic and/or hydrophobic silica and antioxidant. No further coupling agent is used, probably not necessary.

As can be seen the most of the documents are concerned with similar problems, ie. greases for optical cables and any of these documents can be taken as the closest prior art.

Although the compatibility with polypropylene has been cited as a problem underlying the invention, there is no data or no example in the application as filed to show that the compositions according to claims 3, 17 or 33 would provide any advantages over the compositions of the prior art (D1-D8) or slightly modified compositions that are possible to arrive at merely by trial and error or by combining the teachings in an obvious way.

Re Item VI.

The cited document WO03/085036 published on 16.10.2003 (claiming priority date of 01.04.2002, having a filing date of 25.03.2003) does not constitute prior art under Rule 64.1 PCT, but it discloses subject-matter that is relevant for claims 1, 2, 4-9, 11-16 and 30-33. The validity of the priority claim has not been checked.

Re Item VII.

Contrary to the requirements of Rule 5.1(a)(ii) PCT, the relevant background art disclosed in the cited documents (except D6) is not mentioned in the description, nor are these documents identified therein.
